ABOUT THIS DOCUMENT : This is a CV of failures. I first heard of this notion from Mike Gelbart who is working as Computer science Educator at University of British Columbia. Please see the introduction in this Web Link for more details.

Just to summarize, our success is made up of hard work along with our failures. While our success is like the visible part of the iceberg, failures are the non-visible part. This document may not be hundred percent accurate and I surely have even more failures in my life than the ones listed here.
